

STEP-by-STEP

1. Go to the App's Folder ~ click on the UMHS Folder
2. Click on the Bates' Folder
3. Click icon called 'Index' to take you to the Main Menu for the Bates videos.
4. Tell you browser to always allow pop-ups from this site
5. Choose the video you would like to watch and click on it ~ you may be good to go ~
OR
6. at this point you may have an Adobe Flash Player Security window pop up. If so, follow the directive and click on 'Settings' to take you to the Adobe site.
7. Click the green radial button to allow your computer to run Flash Player. Also copy and paste the suggested path for Bates into the box and click 'Enter' ~ the path should appear in the grayed box allowing your computer to know to trust the Bates program and always run Flash Player for it.
8. Now you should be up and running! If not please contact the IT Dept to assist you.

How to Access:

"The Bates' Visual Guide to Physical Examination Videos"

The screenshot shows the website for "Bates' Visual Guide to Physical Examination 4th Edition" by Lynn S. Bickley, MD, published by Lippincott Williams & Wilkins. The page features a dark blue header with the publisher's name and a white navigation menu. The main content area is a white box with a grid of links to various video topics, including "Approach to the Patient", "Cardiovascular System", "Head-to-toe Assessment (Adult)", "Peripheral Vascular System", "Pediatric Head-to-toe Assessment (Infant)", "Breasts and Axillae", "Pediatric Head-to-toe Assessment (Child)", "Abdomen", "Head-to-toe Assessment (Older Adult)", "Male Genitalia, Hernias, Rectum, and Prostate", "General Survey and Vital Signs", "Female Genitalia, Anus, and Rectum", "Examination of the Skin", "Musculoskeletal System", "Head, Eyes, and Ears", "The Nervous System: Cranial Nerves and Motor System", "Nose, Mouth, and Neck", "The Nervous System: Sensory System and Reflexes", and "Thorax and Lungs". The Lippincott Williams & Wilkins logo is at the bottom left, and "All content herein © copyright 2005, Lippincott Williams & Wilkins." and "Read Me" are at the bottom right.

System Requirements:

1. Adobe Flash Player, & Quick Time
2. Internet Explorer (won't work with other browsers.)
3. PC (won't work on a Mac computer)
4. Disable Pop-Up Blocker for this site.